I don't have a credit card, and I know somebody is going to ask me that, so...but I don't know how all this system works but I do know it's efficient and we should have a better record. Somebody said, well, this will make more ability for people to steal or whatever. What stops them now if they want to go down to Country General or Coast to Coast and buy something? Nothing. They can do it now. If they want to find a way to cheat the system, they can. Of course, we don't have anybody from the state of Nebraska who wants to cheat the system, so we're pretty safe there. But anyway, this a better check, better system, one check. I have a list here of all the names that the State Treasurer makes out there.... Look at all the checks. Just look at them. Hundreds of them, Country General, Computerland, Lincoln. Here I am reading names, I said I wasn't going to do that, but there's just hundreds of names in here; motels, just...just I didn't know we did so much business around the state but we're pretty good...we're pretty good to our local customers and that's...it generates dollars, I guess, but I just...I was surprised, I was astounded, and we shouldn't have to write checks to each one of these. Now, are we inventing the wheel? No.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: One minute.

SENATOR CUDABACK: We are not reinventing the wheel here. This is done in other states. Other states do it. Other places do it. Businesses do it. You do it. So we're not reinventing the wheel. It just simply makes common sense to make out one check and have on the back of that card that you swipe through, that person cannot charge...he couldn't charge a cup of coffee, if the card doesn't authorize it. I guess they can do that. I guess they can do all kind of things nowadays. But, anyway, I think it's a good bill and we heard it in committee. Unfortunately, all of you didn't hear it. That's the way our system works. We hear what we hear and sometimes we're not privy to all the information until somebody gets up and explains it. I guess all I can say is that maybe trust me, I guess, and it will work out. You've heard that before.

PRESIDENT MAURSTAD: Thank you, Senator. The Chair recognizes Senator Hartnett.
